From phishing emails to fake sellers, fraud tactics are becoming more sophisticated. Here's a quick guide to the top scams in 2025 and how to protect yourself.

Amazon Scams to Watch For:

- Fake Order Emails – Scammers mimic Amazon emails to trick you into clicking malicious links. Always verify the sender's email (Amazon uses @amazon.com).
- Brushing Scams – Unsolicited packages? Fraudsters use your address to post fake reviews and boost product ratings.
- Impersonation Calls – “Amazon support” may call claiming suspicious activity. Don't share personal info or install remote access software.
- Third-Party Seller Scams – Beware of too-good-to-be-true deals from new sellers. They may vanish after taking your money—or send fake goods.
- Fake Job Offers – Offers for Amazon “remote jobs” asking for training fees or personal data are usually scams.
